Information

For this session I have been very lucky to be able to get Dr Martin Maudsley to present a talk and practical workshop on environmental play.

Martin is editor of 'Playing on the Wild Side' (Playwork Partnerships 2009) and co- author of 'Play Naturally, A review of Children's Natural Play' (Play England 2007). He career has combined the roles of academic, environmentalist, playworker and professional story-teller. He has worked with BBC's Country File, the Soil Association, Bristol Zoo, the Eden project and the National Trust and many schools.

He is a highly entertaining speaker and has a wealth of practical ideas to help children playfully engage with their natural environment.

Bring good footwear and warm coats as part of the session will be outside.
