

A GLOUCESTERSHIRE DANCE & SWINDON DANCE CO-PRODUCTION

Banxy & Joey Street Dancers
In
Dr Octagon

Over 150 students from 4 secondary schools (King Edmund, Ridings, Hanham and Kingsfield) and The Old Park Youth Club, took part in a dynamic and funky street dance residency.

More than 200 students watched a performance of Dr Octagon, a mix of theatre, street and hip hop dance telling a story of Dr Octagon and his assistant using a laser gun to end the world which back fires and turns them into funky dancers. They alike being funky and then turn the gun onto themselves to make themselves more funky, to the point that they become Elvis. The students then went through an up-beat, funky workshop learning moves, poses and routines from the show. All the students wish to say thank you to Banxy and Joey for all the energy and enthusiasm they shared, Wicked!

In partnership with Gloucestershire Dance we aim to continue with dance projects of such high quality

So prepare to get funky!!
